

ABSTRACT

In order to provide an air conditioner capable of safely discharging drain water outwards, and having good assembly properties and maintenance properties, an electrical equipment box 270 including a control substrate is placed on the side of a first side plate 250 of a base panel 200, and a drain pump unit 600 is placed adjacent to a second side plate 260, to treat drain water in a position apart from an electrical system.